Hey Taylor,

Nice seeing you last night at the Bridge Housing event. I thought it was interesting to hear both sides of the equation and left optimistic that this will hopefully improve things for the homeless as well as for everyone who lives here.

Thanks for catching that little detail on our flyer! I've updated the flyer with the direct link to our cause on GoFundMe. I've added it below.

If you could please send out an email blast out to as many people as possible with our flyer that would be great! I'll be handing out flyers tonight at the EVNA meeting as well. Hopefully people will step up and help make this happen!

Thanks again,

Hey Taylor,

Just following up on this! We've started the fundraising process as you'll see on the Gofundme page but getting the word out is crucial and I think your email list will be pivotal in helping us get to where we need to be.

Many of us have been handing out flyers, posting on social media etc but getting the word out via email is essential in getting this funded.

Thank you,

The campaign is off to a great start! $14k in two days is great!

Thought - is it possible to edit the gofundme so it focuses more this as a neighborhood beautification enhancement? Right now it reads like this is just to hardscape an area to displace homeless and I wonder if we might be able to inspire the same sort of civic activism for a positive beautification of the neighborhood irrespective of the homeless encampment.

The first 3 paragraphs being all about how bad homelessness on is and tying the encampment to crime seems like maybe less the emphasis you want to put off and instead you might want to focus on the location otherwise being unimproved dirt with this as a beautiful improvement for all those who live near by and walk through the garden - you could talk about how the flowers in the landscaping plan are designed to attract butterflies and hummingbirds.

This actually makes me think of an email I never sent to you awhile back, Taylor. I don't know who christened this a "butterfly" park but I think we need to get real here. This is only happening because of the homeless encampment and that is what is motivating everyone. The area was a rocky, sandy, dirty patch with no neighborhood impetus to do anything way before the homeless problem exploded. We have actually gotten more pushback from people who worry that we are not concentrating enough on "aggressive" plant material and that we are just planting beautiful bushes.

Hi Taylor:

Thanks for your response! You make a great point about the importance of emphasizing the positive, but please believe me when I tell you that as we go around canvassing the neighborhood and responding to emails, the overwhelming criticism/questions are along the lines of "well, it looks very nice, but how do we know it's going to get rid of the encampment? I don't want to pay for pretty plants, I want these people gone."

I would love to connect on the phone at your soonest convenience – could we can set up a quick call this afternoon or tomorrow to discuss strategy?

Also, going forward, we need to schedule an informational meeting that you can be a part of so that we can together answer the questions/concerns that we are getting from many in the neighborhood. Thinking we should set it for November 8 – a week from next Thursday.
